particular the volunteer firefighters. A collection boot filled with donations from guests was divided between the two fire departments.

The CBACC had its outgoing and incoming chamber board members recognized, especially incoming Board Chairman Lloyd Robertson.

The guest speaker was Dr. Stan Copeland, preacher at Lover's Lane United Methodist Church in Dallas and Chandler man at heart; he grew up in Chandler. Copeland cautioned the crowd of around 150 about hoarding treasures on Earth that can be stolen or destroyed.

"Stockpile treasures in Heaven," Copeland said.

He talked about his first time preaching and what happened to him during his sermon at a young age.

"I preached my first sermon on the week after Christmas," he said. "I preached from Genesis to Revelation in five minutes."

He continued about where the important treasures truly are.

"The place where your treasure is, is the place where you most want to be. You decide what are really your treasures, and you have treasures in these two communities," Copeland said.

He added the three biggest treasures in the Chandler/Brownsboro community are its schools, churches and citizens who provide service.

Before closing, Stan Copeland spoke of when he was diagnosed with terminal leukemia nearly 23 years ago.

"I was told it was usually fatal in three years," he said. "My whole world came to a screeching halt."

Of course, this time the disease did not prove so quickly fatal.

The speaker closed by saying the area community is blessed, and a treasure in and of itself.

volunteer fire departments in the county.

County Sheriff Ray Nutt was there to give a report on the jail expansion.

"Looks like everything's running smooth," Nutt said. "We're finalizing work on fire alarms as well."

Submitted payroll issues were presented to the court. McKinney made the motion to approve and Hall seconded.

There was a pair of plats to approve. The motion for the first was made and seconded by Precinct Four Commissioner Jerry West and Precinct Three Commissioner Ronny Lawrence, respectively. The motion to approve the second was made by McKinney and seconded by Hall.

A contract for an online auctioning service to dispose of law books was up for approval. The motion to approve was made and seconded by West and Lawrence, respectively.

While there were no 2009 budget amendments to approve, there were some 2008 amendments left over. McKinney made the motion to approve them and Hall seconded.

The court authorized bill payment for 2008 and 2009. The 2008 bills totaled $3,859.13; McKinney and Hall made the motion and seconded, respectively. The 2009 bills reached $118,779.14, and Hall made the motion here with McKinney seconding.

Finally, there was a single bid for the court to consider. It was for roof repair on the front part of the judicial complex, which will cost around $6,540. The work will have a one year warranty.

West made the motion to approve the bid and Lawrence seconded.
