The people of Brownsboro filled the gymnasium, a not-unusual occurrence, except that Thursday night, the capacity came from a crowd on the gym floor and not in the stands.

It was the 2010 Brownsboro Athletic Banquet honoring the school's athletes and success in the past year.

Brownsboro Independent School District Superintendent Elton Caldwell gave the opening remarks of the evening.

"This group, they've provided some outstanding moments for us, boys and girls," Caldwell said. "They've been extremely competitive and have always represented us well."

Caldwell praised the school board and BSD athletic director John Settle, thanking them for their work in bringing upgrades to the district's athletic facilities.

In particular, the superintendent noted the in-progress addition of artificial turf, concessions and restroom facilities, along with expanded seating, all at the football facility. Caldwell also noted improvements to the dressing rooms there and the coming addition of four new tennis courts elsewhere on district property.

Settle, who was the master of ceremonies, also noted the Brownsboro competitive spirit. He pointed out that 11-of-12 teams made the playoffs this year. It was a success rate that also included two district titles.

The big awards of the evening were saved for the end of the night.

Cameron Warren was tapped with the Bears Award, while Hillary Shaffer was honored with the Bearettes Award.

The Letterman Award was shared between Warren and Tyler Rogers. Justin

BISD athletics alive, well, and going strong

If I had to talk about the status of sports in the Brownsboro Independent School District, I'd have to say one word, "healthy."

All of the programs here are competitive, especially the team sports.

Starting with the fall teams, the football and volleyball squads made the playoffs. Following them, both the boys and girls basketball teams advanced past the regular season.

Then came the "diamond" sports, with both the baseball and softball teams making the postseason.

I don't think anyone missed the playoffs this year. It's hard to match a record like that.

And you can add in the fact that Trey Volentine advanced to the State tournament in golf.

All in all, the 2009-2010 school year has been a good one for Brownsboro athletics.

My Texas Rangers are going to tease me again, I think.

I talked about this last year, at about this time, when they were leading their division and playing like a real baseball team most of the time.

Here we are again, and the Rangers (on Tuesday) have a two-game lead over the Oakland A's, and are just three games over .500. That ought to be my first clue to not get my hopes up, that the Rangers are barely winning more than they're losing.

But, in baseball, hope springs eternal. It's the sport of "wait'll next year!"

So, I'll keep waiting for the Rangers to win at least one
